HAWKINS' heroes

Flashlights and walkie-talkies on... Millie Bobby Brown and the gang gear up for an epic final showdown

NEW SCI-FI

Stranger Things

From Thursday 27 November, Netflix

After almost 10 years of 1980s-inspired adventures, soundtracks and hairstyles, the end is here for sci-fi phenomenon Stranger Things. But can Hawkins' young heroes rescue their town and humanity itself from the ever-encroaching Upside Down?

Showing in three parts, Season 5 picks up 18 months on, in the autumn of 1987, with Hawkins now under military quarantine after the monstrous Vecna (Jamie Campbell Bower) opened up 'rifts' between the once-peaceful Indiana town and his alternate dimension.

Hawkins' citizens believe an earthquake is to blame for the destruction, while Vecna (formerly known as Henry Creel, or One) remains at large, albeit wounded. But Mike (Finn Wolfhard) and his gang – Dustin (Gaten Matarazzo), Lucas (Caleb McLaughlin) and Will (Noah Schnapp) – are laser-focused on their mission to destroy the evil, gnarly deity.

Trouble is, their secret weapon, telekinetic teenager Eleven (Millie Bobby Brown), is now on the run from the government. Can the crew reunite to close the portals and stop the Upside Down from engulfing their world?

'This season, Eleven is in training mode,' says Brown, 21. 'She's in a warrior state, which is the first time you see her like that at the beginning of a season. As for her mindset, all she's thinking about is protecting her friends, so she'll do whatever it takes to keep them safe.'

Brown has played Eleven since the age of 11.

'My whole career has been built on this show, so saying goodbye has been emotional,' she says. 'You're not only saying goodbye to the characters but the people you've met.'

IN DEEP WATER

Also returning for the last hurrah is Sadie Sink, although her character Max's fate is precariously balanced after her psychic tethering to Vecna left her in a comatose state.

'We left Max in a tough place and her final moments last season were in a hospital bed,' says Sink, 23. 'Eleven was searching for her in the void and couldn't find her, so Max is definitely not the way she once was. There's still a small glimmer of hope, though, and her friends are hanging on to that.'

Hawkins' resident good guy, Steve Harrington (Joe Keery), also returns for the final fight, along with his best friend, Robin Buckley (Maya Hawke), Mike's sister, Nancy Wheeler (Natalia Dyer), and her boyfriend and Will's brother, Jonathan Byers (Charlie Heaton).

Eleven's guardian, Jim Hopper (David Harbour), and Will's much-loved mum, Joyce Byers (Winona Ryder), are back helping the courageous kids. But as the anniversary of Will's disappearance into the Upside Down approaches, does Vecna have a plan for the boy who started it all?

'We hit the ground running,' says Schnapp, 21. 'Will was out of Hawkins last season, so now we're seeing the effects of him being back in that realm. But while he used to be a shy, very insular kid who spent years being on the outside and feeling different, Will starts to realise that's kind of his superpower. When he accepts himself, he flourishes.'

But new threats are gripping Hawkins now, as ruthless scientist Dr Kay (The Terminator star Linda Hamilton) is pursuing Eleven for her psychokinetic abilities.

'Linda Hamilton is a legend,' says co-creator Ross Duffer, who's already working on a spin-off with his twin brother, Matt. 'We weren't sure who Dr Kay would be, but once Linda came in, we moulded the character around her. We gave her more of a military edge, so she can fight and use a gun.'

Following this first instalment of four episodes, Volume 2 (three episodes) drops on Boxing Day, with the finale on New Year's Day.

'This is the biggest season we've had in terms of action, visual effects and story. I think people want to see these characters together one last time,' says Duffer.

'We designed the schedule so that each actor's final scene was their last day on the show. Everyone was emotional and that infused their closing moments. Hopefully, you'll feel that watching them.'

‘Every day someone would break down in tears while we were filming’

NARGES RASHIDI

Darkest days

Narges Rashidi and Joseph Fiennes star in a real-life drama about a British family ripped apart

NEW DRAMA

Prisoner 951

Sunday & Monday, 9pm, BBC1 (box set, BBC iPlayer)

When Nazanin Zaghari-Ratcliffe was arrested by Iran's Revolutionary Guard at Tehran's International Airport on 3 April 2016, she had no idea it was the first day of a living nightmare that would last nearly six years.

The British-Iranian citizen was about to return home to the UK following a holiday, after taking her 22-month-old daughter Gabriella to meet her family in Iran.

At first, she was told she would be released the next morning, but as days turned into weeks, she was put on trial and sentenced to prison on trumped-up charges of plotting to topple the Iranian regime.

The tale of Zaghari-Ratcliffe's ordeal, and the tireless struggle of her husband Richard to bring her home, is told in Prisoner 951, a four-part BBC1 drama starring Narges Rashidi and Joseph Fiennes.

'In a normal drama, you might have two or three scenes that are very emotional,' explains Gangs of London star Rashidi, 45, who plays Zaghari-Ratcliffe. 'But on this, sometimes we were filming seven or eight of those scenes a day. Nazanin was even put in solitary confinement for nine months while her daughter was growing up without her. I felt humbled by that. Every day someone would break down in tears while we were filming.'

The real couple in 2022

Outside 10 Downing Street with their daughter Gabriella

COLLATERAL

Gabriella spent more than three years living in Iran with her maternal grandparents, visiting her mother in prison whenever she could, before returning to the UK to start school as Richard fought for his wife's release.

'I talked to Richard at length for several hours before filming,' explains Fiennes. 'Meeting him in person, feeling his spirit, sensing his physicality and hearing first-hand about the events he and his family had to live through was great preparation.'

Richard became convinced that his wife was being used as a pawn in a decades-old disagreement between Britain and Iran, involving a £450m bill relating to a 1970s arms deal when the UK refused to deliver all its promised weaponry following the overthrow of the shah.

'I found it extraordinary,' says Fiennes, 55. 'That money had not been paid back [by the UK], so over 40 years on, an innocent family is completely decimated by the actions of a country that has decided to take a citizen as collateral for that debt.'

Despite pressure from the UK government to go through official channels, Richard went public with his suspicions, and even undertook two hunger strikes in a bid to publicise Zaghari-Ratcliffe's case.

Richard Ratcliffe (Fiennes) went on two hunger strikes

LOVE STORY

Finally, after the UK paid Iran the money it owed, Zaghari-Ratcliffe was released from prison in March 2022 and was reunited with her family in emotional scenes.

'There are extraordinary love stories that evolve through the series,' says Fiennes. 'The love of family members, and also between the prisoners in Iran who help each other get through horrific events. It's a human drama juxtaposed with the political.

'We have two stories running alongside each other but they're both joined at the hip by the notion of profound love and by how people get through the darkest of times.'

Two thieves plot an audacious robbery in a festive romcom

Stealing hearts

NEW FROM NETFLIX

NEW ROMANTIC COMEDY

Jingle Bell Heist

From Wed 26 November, Netflix

A pair of cash-strapped singletons team up to rob a luxury London department store on Christmas Eve in the romantic crime caper Jingle Bell Heist on Netflix.

Facing mounting hospital bills for her mother's cancer treatment and desperate for a quick payday, shop worker Sophia (Olivia Holt) decides to steal from her own workplace, Sterling's, run by nasty, posh owner Maxwell Sterling (The Gentlemen's Peter Serafinowicz), who is married to money-hungry wife Cynthia (Amandaland's Lucy Punch).

Despite being a very light-fingered thief, Sophia is inadvertently caught on camera by ex-security consultant turned phone repairman Nick (Sex Education's Connor Swindells), who also needs funds to help create a stable home for his daughter following his recent divorce.

Seeing an opportunity for them to help each other, Nick persuades Sophia to form an uneasy alliance and, together, the pair start plotting the ultimate holiday heist – to rob Sterling's on Christmas Eve. As they navigate safes, secrets and soft toys, their feelings for each other deepen along the way. Will they steal each other's hearts, too?

'This movie has elements of action, romance and mystery – all worlds I love. It was so much fun,' says Holt, 28, whose TV credits include Marvel series Runaways and teen drama Cruel Summer. 'This movie is filled with disguises, fun jokes and funny people – there are so many silly bits in the movie that leaning into it was the only way to really make it work.'

SILLY SEASON

'What drew me to the project was the excitement of making something silly and joyful again,' adds Swindells, 29, who played wartime hero David Stirling in BBC1 drama SAS Rogue Heroes. 'I've always wanted to make a Christmas movie.'

transformed into the bustling Sterling's department store, both actors had plenty of inspiration to get them in the festive spirit…

'There were so many movies I watched during that time – it was kind of kismet in that way,' explains Holt. 'We both watched Ocean's Eleven, and I love Four Christmases, especially the dynamic between Reese Witherspoon and Vince Vaughn in that movie. They are this unlikely pair, and their banter and bickering is fun. Connor and I definitely leant into that a little bit.'

Meanwhile, for the action scenes, Holt had to master some sleight of hand to play skilled swindler Sophia.

'I worked with a magician at the start of the shoot and learnt how to be quick with my hands and just super-sly and suspicious,' she smiles. 'I don't know if I can quite call myself a magician yet – but it's fun to whip out some of the tricks that I learnt for the movie.'

Holmes ALONE

Dr Watson takes centre stage in a modern-day twist on the Sherlock story

Morris Chestnut as Dr Watson

NEW DRAMA

Watson

Monday, 9pm & 10pm, Sky Witness

As fans of Arthur Conan Doyle's legendary detective Sherlock Holmes will know, there's no Sherlock without his sidekick Dr John Watson. But now, this new US series explores how John would fare without his best friend and sleuthing partner, especially when it comes to solving mysteries.

Set in present-day Pittsburgh, the drama sees Rosewood's Morris Chestnut step into the well-worn shoes of Dr Watson, who, months after Sherlock's death at the hands of his arch-nemesis Moriarty, has resumed his medical career and is now the head of a clinic dedicated to treating rare disorders.

As a series of medical mysteries present themselves, John steps out of Sherlock's shadow to get to the bottom of the baffling cases – and he has the help of the young medics he mentors.

'We're not a typical medical drama,' explains Chestnut. 'We solve cases inside the hospital and outside of the hospital. We're doctors, but we're also detectives.'

Dr Watson is still coming to terms with his past and we learn that he suffered a traumatic brain injury as he tried to save Sherlock during a fatal encounter with Moriarty in Switzerland.

He's also struggling to accept that his marriage to his doctor wife Mary (S.W.A.T.'s Rochelle Aytes), who also happens to be his boss, is over after he followed Sherlock to Europe to solve mysteries.

FALL AND RISE

'His world has blown apart. He lost his best friend and has a traumatic brain injury, and on top of that, he comes back and his wife has left him,' says Chestnut, 56. 'So there's a lot going on in his head.'

To make matters worse, Dr Watson discovers that Moriarty (Fresh off the Boat's Randall Park) survived his epic battle with Sherlock and is now preparing to take him on once more.

'For Watson, it is a great opportunity to match wits with the only person that's really got the best of Sherlock,' says Chestnut. 'He's driven to avenge the death of his best friend.'

NEW COMEDY

Changing Ends

Sun-Tue & Thu-Fri, times vary, ITV1 (box set, ITVX)

Fresh from his glorious win on The Celebrity Traitors, Alan Carr is back to tackle the awkward teenage years of his life in hit ITV1 sitcom Changing Ends.

The third series about his childhood in 1980s Northampton finds young Alan (Oliver Savell) in turmoil, with heartache and questionable knitwear playing havoc with his hopes and dreams.

We caught up with comedian Carr, 49, to hear more…

What can we expect from this series? Alan's hit puberty, so he's full of hormones and lust! I just wanted to be in love at that age and fell for a boy who had a Saturday job working in Athena, the poster shop. I used to go in every Saturday and flick through the prints. I was a terrible flirt.

Young Alan has his first crush in the opening episode. Is that storyline straight from real life? Yes, I once went back to Northampton and saw my first crush queuing at a cashpoint. My knees went to jelly. I didn't say hi – he had his chance. He could be dating a national treasure now!

Does the show make you nostalgic for your younger years and 80s fashions? I couldn't go through puberty again. And I'm definitely no fashion icon. I used to love going to charity shops. I remember dancing to disco music and my

Amy is on a quest to recover her lost memories

NEW DRAMA

Doc

Wednesday, 9pm, Sky Witness

In the first season of US medical drama Doc, brilliant but brusque Dr Amy Larsen (Molly Parker) had to rebuild her life after the brain injury she sustained in a car crash wiped the last eight years of her memory.

She had to retake her medical exams to work as a doctor again at the Westside Hospital in Minneapolis, and, more painfully, she had to be reminded of the tragic death of her young son Danny, which had led to her harsh demeanour, and that she and Danny's father, the hospital's chief medical officer Dr Michael Hamda (Omar Metwally), were divorced.

mum would tell me to shush as she could hear the swish of my flares.

You fibbed incessantly to win The Celebrity Traitors. Can we believe events in Changing Ends really happened? Everything you're about to watch is authentic, including Alan going to a Preston football match with his dad and staying in a grotty B&B. But I worry that after Traitors, people won't believe a word of Changing Ends. It's all true, honest.

GROWING PAINS

Oliver Savell picked up a Royal Television Society award in March for his performance as young Alan in Changing Ends, and the actor, who turns 16 next month, is delighted to be back for more teenage escapades.

'My voice has broken since the last series,' he reveals, 'so I worked hard on adapting my Alan voice and it's ended up being closer to how he sounds today.

'In this series, Alan is a proper teenager – stroppy with his parents, secretive about his crush – but the transition from kid to teenager feels natural as I've grown up myself.'

Molly Parker as Amy

more empathetic, is repairing her relationship with her teenage daughter Katie (Charlotte Fountain-Jardim) and has resumed her romance with chief resident Dr Jake Heller (Jon-Michael Ecker), although she can't recall their previous trysts.

But not everything is rosy in the second season. Jake is questioning their relationship after he saw Amy and Michael together, while Amy's tough former mentor Dr Joan Ridley (Desperate Housewives' Felicity Huffman) is appointed the new chief of internal medicine, following the firing of Dr Richard Miller (Scott Wolf), who had tried to frame Amy for his part in the death of a patient.

'Joan took this job to make this hospital the best in the state, maybe the world, and she wants Amy to get back to where she was,' explains Huffman, 62.

To this end, Amy is on a mission to try to retrieve her lost memories, although some of the methods she employs have side effects.

'She wants clarity,' says Parker, 53. 'She thinks, "If I could just get my memories back, maybe I would know what I want. Maybe I would be able to remember the things I don't like about Michael and the things that I really liked about Jake or vice versa."'

SNOW SLOTHS

'Everyone loves a sloth, and our Ice Age ones are especially eye-catching – they look like polar bears. We have a fun sequence where they come out of hibernation and are rolling in the snow, but the little baby doesn't know what to do, while the older brother ends up sliding down the snow.'

Out of the cold

A new Prehistoric Planet spectacular brings extinct Ice Age animals to life

tv Prehistoric Planet: Ice Age

NEW Available: Wed 26 November
Genre: Documentary Season: 3 Eps: 5

As Apple TV's acclaimed natural-history series returns for a spellbinding third outing, prepare to be transported back to the Pleistocene Ice Age, when woolly mammoths roamed frozen vistas and tiny elephants were preyed upon by giant flying storks in lush forest landscapes.

Narrator Tom Hiddleston

Narrated by actor Tom Hiddleston and set to an original score by Oscar-winning composer Hans Zimmer, Prehistoric Planet: Ice Age combines leading scientific research with cutting-edge VFX to resurrect a variety of extinct species over the course of five episodes, each exploring key elements from this era.

We caught up with executive producer Mike Gunton to hear about his highlights…

WOOLLY RHINOS

'The baby woolly rhino is also adorable. He has a blind grandma to look after him and the connection between them is beautiful. Here, you see the rest of the herd coming to the grandmother's rescue [when scimitar-toothed cats attack], which is something I've seen African buffalo doing with lions.'

CARNIVOROUS KANGAROOS

'This giant kangaroo is so big that it can't actually hop. It's hunted and chased by marsupial lions, and they have a slow-motion pursuit across the deserts of Australia. Hunt scenes are usually tense, but there's a comedic side to this one, as it's a bit like watching a clown run in oversized clown shoes. It's a very surprising and fun sequence.'

The best of Netflix, Prime Video, Disney+ and more...

WOOLLY MAMMOTHS

'During the Ice Age, there were a lot of complex social animals exhibiting intelligent behaviours. In the opening scenes of our first episode, you see the power of families when a woolly mammoth gives birth in a blizzard. One of the standout stars of the series is definitely the baby mammoth. Imagine how cute it is, then picture it sneezing in the snow!'

DWARF STEGODONS

'They look like elephants, but the mother is only about 3ft tall and her baby is under 12in. Their story is a Hansel and Gretel-type fairy tale. The baby gets lost in a magical but sinister forest and has to hide from large predatory storks that could fly. The Ice Age was a crazy place where birds ate tiny elephants.'

MARSUPIAL LIONS

'These were one of the hardest animals to re-create because of the way they move. Effectively, they're related to koalas, so you have to combine how a lion behaves with something that's built like a carnivorous koala. It looks just as outlandish and awkward as the giant kangaroo.'

Down Cemetery Road

Genre: Thriller Season: 1
Episodes: 8 (released weekly)

Based on Slow Horses writer Mick Herron's 2003 book of the same name, this twisty thriller has another Jackson Lamb-type anti-hero at its centre with Dame Emma Thompson clearly relishing her role as sharp-tongued Oxford private eye Zoë Boehm. She is hired by art restorer Sarah Trafford (Ruth Wilson), who is determined to find her five-year-old neighbour, Dinah, who vanished after a fatal explosion at her home. The oddball pair make an unlikely but effective team as their investigations unravel a far-reaching conspiracy.

Ballad of a Small Player

Genre: Thriller
Episodes: One-off

Colin Farrell (right) gives a compelling performance as a con man who's hiding from his debts and his past in the gambling capital of Macao in China. But a private investigator (Tilda Swinton) is on his tail.

Aileen: Queen of the Serial Killers

Genre: Documentary
Episodes: One-off

A revealing death-row interview forms part of a documentary on sex worker turned serial killer Aileen Wuornos (right), who was executed in 2002 for killing seven clients in 1989 and 1990.

Three upcoming shows to look out for soon

Eloise

Filming is under way in London on Netflix's live-action family film, based on the children's books by Kay Thompson and Hilary Knight. Ryan Reynolds (above) is set to play a villain who crosses paths with mischief-loving young girl Eloise (Mae Schenk).

The Spot

Claire Danes (above) will star in Disney+'s upcoming drama about a surgeon whose marriage to a schoolteacher (Ewan McGregor) comes under strain when they try to uncover the truth about whether she has caused the hit-and-run death of a child.

Nobody Wants This

Netflix's romcom will return for a third season next year. Adam Brody and Kristen Bell (both above) will reprise their roles as rabbi Noah and agnostic podcaster Joanne, who, after falling in love, are trying to build a life together despite their differences.

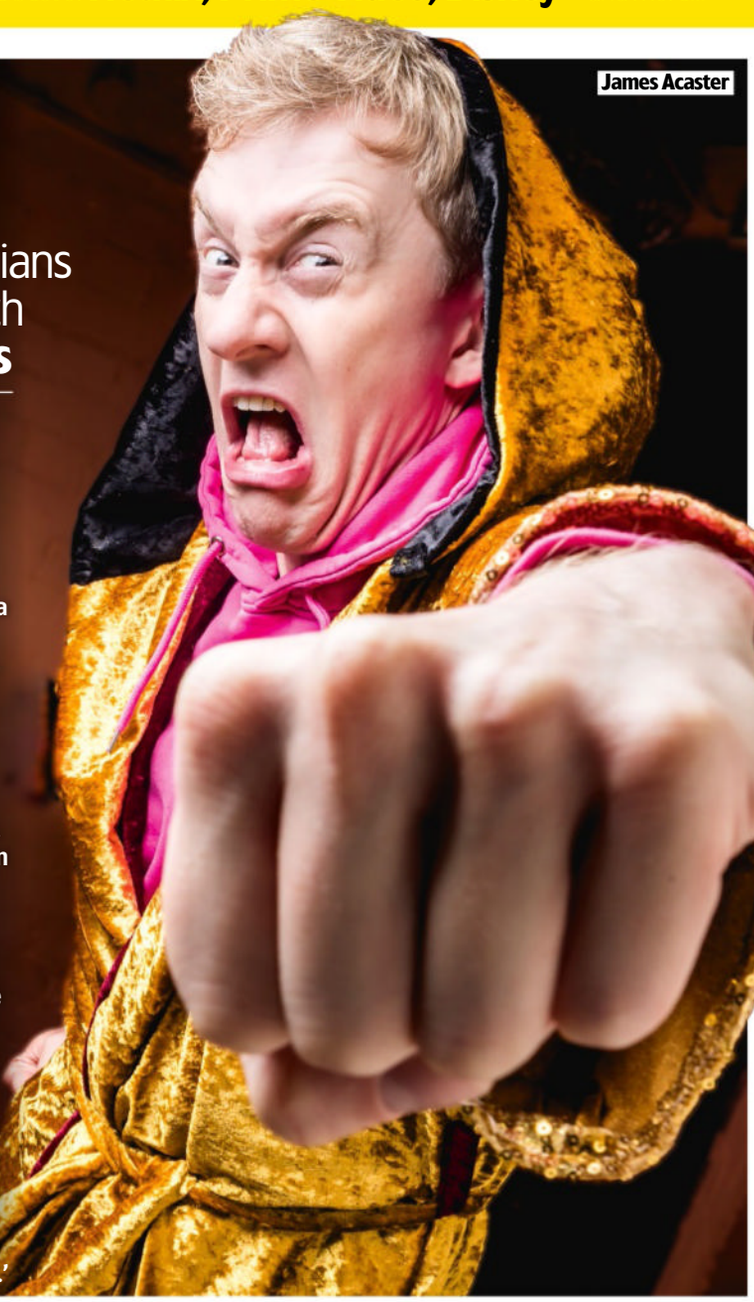
Plucky comedians get to grips with pro wrestlers



James Acaster

U Clash of the Comics

NEW Available: Fri 28 November
Genre: Entertainment
Season: 1 Episodes: 9

Some of the biggest names on the UK stand-up circuit will be donning their shiniest outfits and preparing to hurl themselves off the top rope as they join the world of professional wrestling in U's Clash of the Comics.

Created by Max Olesker and Ivan Gonzalez, the show originated at the Edinburgh Fringe before becoming a cult live event that brings comedians and wrestlers together for a night of tongue-in-cheek entertainment. This year's extravaganza took place at London's Hammersmith Apollo in October, and now makes its TV debut on U, split into nine parts for ease of viewing.

'It's a match made in heaven,' says Olesker, who, along with Gonzalez, will be competing as The OGs in a nine-team tornado tag match. 'For a comedian who was, many years ago, the UK's youngest professional wrestler, this has been the journey of a lifetime.'

Joe Lycett

Ivo Graham is on MC duty, with Sara Pascoe, Nish Kumar and Radio 1's Greg James at the commentary desk, while Joe Lycett is the pretend CEO.

'After enjoying a crisp Riesling one evening, I awoke the next day to discover I had purchased the world's finest wrestling-and-comedy league – and I have no regrets,' smiles Lycett.

The showcase bouts include 'Queen of the North (but based in Brighton)' Maisie Adam facing off against professional wrestler Nina Samuels, and James Acaster issuing an open challenge to any opponent from the worlds of wrestling or comedy.

'Every time I've stepped into a ring, I've been humiliated,' says Acaster. 'Now, all of that changes, because I will be wrestling, and I will be winning – and I'll be making the greatest entrance you've ever seen...'

Fab Four docuseries Anthology gets a brand-new episode

Disney+ The Beatles Anthology

NEW Available: Wednesday 26 November Genre: Documentary
Season: 1 Episodes: 9 (three episodes released daily)

Documentary series The Beatles Anthology was first broadcast 30 years ago as part of a multimedia project, also including three albums of rarities and out-takes, celebrating the Fab Four.

The series – initially six episodes, then expanded into eight for a home-video release – featured interviews with John Lennon, Sir Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Sir Ringo Starr, plus lots of archive performance footage and previously unheard tracks. It traced The Beatles' story from their Liverpool childhoods and early years in Hamburg and The Cavern Club to the outbreak of Beatlemania, touring the States and visiting India, before going their separate ways in 1970.

Now the landmark rockumentary is being rereleased, with a new ninth episode, and has been restored by director Peter Jackson, who brought us the epic The Beatles: Get Back in 2021.

This new instalment shows footage of McCartney, Harrison and Starr collaborating in the 1990s, while a fourth Anthology album, remastered by producer George Martin's son Giles, will include unreleased versions of In My Life and Nowhere Man.

According to Starr, Anthology remains the only take on the band that comes straight from the horse's mouth: 'You've heard it from everybody else. Now you can hear it from us.'

Big business

A drama about larger-than-life media tycoon Jan Stenbeck

Oftebro as Jan Stenbeck

Stars Jakob Oftebro and Zoe Boyle

viaplay Vanguard

NEW Available: Mon 24 Nov
Genre: Drama
Season: 1 Episodes: 5 (first two eps from 24 Nov, then weekly)

One of the world's most-charismatic media moguls is brought vividly to life in this five-part Nordic drama starring Lilyhammer's Jakob Oftebro as pioneering Swedish entrepreneur Jan Stenbeck and Frontier's Zoe Boyle as his American wife Merrill.

'Stenbeck is an iconic figure in Sweden. He was a visionary who made huge waves,' explains Boyle as she joins TV&Satellite Week for an exclusive interview. 'He was incredibly charismatic and he charmed Merrill with his effervescent energy.'

Events open in 1975 with Stenbeck in New York, working for Morgan Stanley bank and enjoying a romance with socialite Merrill – until he inherits half of his wealthy family's company, Kinnevik.

Believing the future lies in cellular and satellite technology, Stenbeck begins reinventing Kinnevik, to the horror of his sisters Elisabeth (Julia Marko-Nord) and Margaretha (Malin Crépin). He also assures Merrill that it won't affect their own growing family...

'Initially he promises her it's going to be a short-lived thing, that he will set up the business and return, but he becomes more and more embroiled in it,' says Sons of Anarchy star Boyle.

POWER STRUGGLE

A bitter public fight for control breaks out between Stenbeck and Margaretha, who, alongside Elisabeth, challenges their late father's will in court.

'Things got very bad. There was a full battle that caused a family divide,' explains Boyle. 'There's tension with Merrill, too. When his extramarital activities get featured in the press, it's one step too far for her.'

Filmed in Sweden, the show covers the period from 1975 until Stenbeck's 2002 death.

'Jakob's an incredible actor,' reveals Boyle, 36. 'Stenbeck was a bon vivant and got notoriously fatter over the years, so Jakob spent hours being transformed by prosthetics but he would still be chipper to everybody. What he's achieved is a proper feat.'

Trespasses

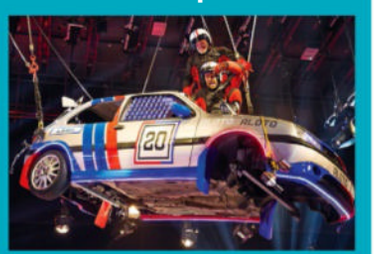
Following a fateful meeting, young Catholic teacher Cushla (Lola Petticrew) falls in love with married Protestant barrister Michael (Tom Cullen) in C4's drama set in Belfast during the Troubles. But they have to keep their romance under wraps.

Play for Today

The revival of the drama anthology on 5 begins with Never Too Late, in which pensioner Cynthia (Anita Dobson) reluctantly moves into a retirement village. She is shocked to bump into her old flame Frank (Nigel Havers) and secrets unravel.

Kingdom

BBC1's wildlife series, narrated by Sir David Attenborough, follows the challenges endured by four animal families in Zambia. Leopard Olimba is embroiled in battles for food with hyenas and wild dogs, while a pride of lions poses a threat.



A League of Their Own

In the opener to the final run of Sky Max's comic sports show, the hilarious end game sees Jamie Redknapp and Jill Scott dangling from the ceiling on top of racing cars along with their teammates.

Avengers star Chris Hemsworth takes his dad, who is living with Alzheimer's, on a nostalgic road trip

NEW FROM Disney+

Precious memories

NEW FACTUAL

Chris Hemsworth: A Road Trip to Remember

Monday, 9pm, National Geographic; & from Mon 24 November, Disney+

During filming for his recent globe-spanning series Limitless, Avengers star Chris Hemsworth discovered via genetic testing that he has an increased risk of Alzheimer's. The news came as a shock for the Australian actor, particularly as his 71-year-old dad, Craig, has recently been diagnosed with the disease.

Although Craig is in the early stages, Alzheimer's is already affecting his short-term memory, and this has inspired Hemsworth to take him on a very special memory-boosting road trip.

The result is powerful new documentary Chris Hemsworth: A Road Trip to Remember, which takes an honest look at the impact of Alzheimer's on the Hemsworth family, and is also a moving story about a father-and-son bond.

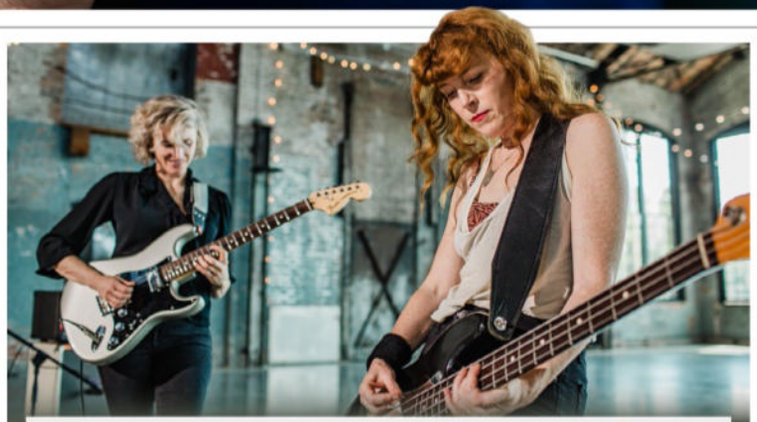
FAMILY TIES

'A road trip is something that we've talked about for years, and it turns out the experience could help fight the disease,' reveals Hemsworth, 42. 'If it helps, that's fantastic. But I'm also just looking forward to spending time with my dad.

Civilisations: Rise and Fall

Mon, 9pm, BBC2 (box set, BBC iPlayer)

This four-parter uses artefacts from The British Museum alongside CGI, reconstructions and expert analysis to trace the fall of four historic civilisations, including the Aztecs, Egyptians and Japanese samurai. First up are the Romans, for whom a refugee crisis meant the beginning of the end of an empire that ruled over a fifth of the global population.



Greatest Basslines

Friday, 9pm, Sky Arts (box set, Sky Box Sets & NOW)

Three bassists – Joy Division and New Order's Peter Hook, who started playing his instrument high up the fretboard to better hear himself, Foo Fighters' Nate Mendel, and Melissa Auf der Maur (above, right) of Hole and The Smashing Pumpkins – give their takes on the power, impact and groove of the bassline in a three-part series.

On the Front Line: Fighting the Phone Snatchers

Tuesday, 7pm, BBC2

As part of the BBC's Scam Safe week, this one-off follows police officers in London as they carry out raids and undercover operations to thwart organised-crime gangs behind the huge levels of phone theft, with more than 80,000 mobiles snatched in the capital last year.

Opening up during a fireside chat

The pair go on a motorbike ride

'It's easy to take our parents for granted. I've been so busy that I probably haven't spent as much time with my dad as I'd like. And now that he's had this diagnosis, and there are good days and bad days, I want to do everything I can to help him.'

INTO THE PAST

Beside the emotional connection, Hemsworth hopes that the process of recalling memories from the past could help boost his father's brain cognition, part of an approach called reminiscence therapy.

They start their trip by going back to their old family home in Melbourne, before riding their motorbikes to the remote outback community of Bulman, where the family lived until Hemsworth was eight years old.

There, they reconnect with their old Indigenous friends and neighbours, while Craig bravely starts to open up about his fears for the future.

'It's been a powerful experience,' says Hemsworth. 'It's stimulated nostalgia and triggered memories, and I feel like that's been a real benefit for Dad.

'I saw something awaken in him on this trip and that makes me feel so thankful. But it's also been a good journey for me to understand him on a deeper level.'

How a toxic chemical entered North Cornwall's drinking water supply...

Widower Doug Cross

Invisible DANGER

NEW FACTUAL

Poison Water
Wednesday, 9pm, BBC2

On the morning of 7 July 1988, Doug Cross boiled the kettle at his home in Camelford, Cornwall, only for the hot water to curdle bizarrely. Later, when his wife Carole ran a bath, the water turned blue.

Yet despite thousands of complaints, including dizziness, vomiting, diarrhoea, blistered skin and mouth ulcers, the then South West Water Authority insisted the water was safe to drink, even advising people to mix it with orange juice to make it more palatable.

In fact, unknown to 20,000 residents of North Cornwall, they'd been affected by the UK's worst mass poisoning after 20 tonnes of aluminium sulphate had been accidentally added to the water supply in a devastating mix-up at the local treatment facility.

'I remember going to make a cup of tea and it just curdled,' says Cross in Poison Water, BBC2's new documentary about the scandal. 'It just looked like a lump of marmalade at the bottom of the cup and I thought, "This is wrong." But actually, it was lethal.'

The truth about the poisoning was shockingly kept secret from the public for 16 days. Even then, a report insisted any symptoms were mild and short-lived, and that there was no danger to people's health.

TOXIC COVER-UP

Yet the full scandal took decades to fully emerge. The documentary hears from several residents like Diane Gibbons, whose father Richard died in 2010 after suffering from osteoporosis, arthritis and brain damage, which she believes was caused by the poisoning.

Richard and Diane Gibbons

Cross' wife Carole also passed away in 2004 from a rare form of dementia. It was found that she had vast amounts of aluminium in her brain, and at a 2012 inquest, the coroner said the poisoning incident could potentially have led to her death. However, to this day, there still hasn't been a fully independent public inquiry.

'I think the evidence is quite convincing that Carole was killed, as were others, by exposure to that incident,' says Cross. 'I want those who were responsible brought to justice and I'll never give up.'

Leonardo DiCaprio and Sean Penn star in this fantastic, frenetic freewheeler

ACTION THRILLER

Available now, buy or rent from digital stores including Prime Video and Sky Store ★★★★★

Director Paul Thomas Anderson pits modern American radicals and reactionaries against each other in the terrific One Battle After Another, brilliantly juggling biting political satire, gripping action, moments of farcical comedy and a disturbingly prescient view of where the United States appears to be heading.

At the heart of the movie is Leonardo DiCaprio's washed-up revolutionary Bob, who has been living off the grid for 16 years, increasingly befuddled by dope and beer but tenderly raising his daughter Willa (Chase Infiniti) alone after his erstwhile comrades in arms, including Bob's former lover, the group's fearsome leader Perfidia Beverly Hills (Teyana Taylor), were captured or killed, or went even deeper underground. But when the group's old enemy, Sean Penn's sinister, unhinged military officer Steven Lockjaw, targets Willa, Bob must get his act together to protect her.

Displaying his undervalued gift for physical comedy, DiCaprio hasn't been this funny in years, but his frazzled radical is immensely touching, too. Meanwhile, aided by the jangling, suspenseful score created by Radiohead's Jonny Greenwood, Anderson gives the story a propulsive energy that makes his film thrillingly urgent, despite its lengthy running time. 2025, 15, 162MIN

From Saturday, Netflix ★★★★★

At a 1970s American boarding school, strict professor Paul (Paul Giamatti) is landed with supervising the students unable to return home over the Christmas holidays, including angry Angus (newcomer Dominic Sessa). But, along with Oscar-winning Da'Vine Joy Rudolph's grieving cook Mary, they connect. Director Alexander Payne slowly reveals the vulnerabilities of his characters beneath the bravado. Giamatti gives a wonderfully warm performance as Paul lets down his reserve and Sessa's charm renders Angus, swaggering but in emotional pain, endearing. MYSTERY HORROR

Opus

Sunday, 10.30am & 6.05pm, Sky Premiere ★★★★

When journalist Ariel (The Bear's Ayo Edebiri) is chosen to be only one of six people to go and listen to the latest music of a legendary reclusive musician (a magnificent John Malkovich) who's releasing his first album in 27 years, she has little idea of a what's in store when she arrives at his compound. It seems... culty. And things only get weirder, much weirder. And bloodier. The first film by the ex-editor of GQ, Mark Anthony Green (a man very familiar with the worship of celebrity), this pitch-black comedy morphs into something increasingly sinister, with Edebiri proving to be a superb anchor for the insanity going on around her. Malkovich, though, is so good you'll struggle to believe he's not a rock god in real life. 2025, 15, 104MIN

A bright and breezy CGI cartoon about a family of mallard ducks, Migration sees the fearful dad (voiced by Kumail Nanjiana) forced by his more adventurous wife (Elizabeth Banks) into migrating with their ducklings and eccentric uncle (Danny DeVito) from their safe, but dull pond to sunny Jamaica. It's the kind of movie kids will lap up, but has enough for adults to enjoy, too, helped with a script from Mike White (yes, he of The White Lotus and School of Rock fame) and a plethora of cameo voices, including David Mitchell, Awkwafina and Keegan-Michael Key. 2023, U, 91MIN

A fun, schlocky B-movie horror based in the very loosest sense on a videogame, this is grisly, darkly humorous entertainment, helped by the fact it'll keep you guessing about in what new way these youngsters will meet their demise next. 2025, 15, 103MIN

From Wednesday, Prime Video ★★★★

With a white supremacist gang out to kill his entire bloodline after falling foul of them in prison, Nathan (Taron Egerton) grabs his estranged 11-year-old daughter Polly (an extraordinary Ana Sophia Heger) and goes on the run around New Mexico. With no resources or people they can trust, they must somehow outrun unrelenting, vicious thugs and bent cops.

Although a brutal, wincingly grisly tale (based on the bestseller by Jordan Harper), the fairly routine thriller aspect has been told before. What makes this film step out from the shadow of other similar movies is the core father-daughter dynamic at its heart. Their bond is formed over time in a strangely organic fashion, helped enormously by Egerton and Heger's outstanding performances.

Following on from his directorial debut, Calm with Horses, British film-maker Nick Rowland's beautifully lensed movie conjures up a bleak, unforgiving world counterbalanced by the vast, magnificent mountain ranges of New Mexico. There's an excellent supporting cast, too, including Rob Yang's decent detective and a monstrous John Carroll Lynch. But it's youngster Heger who steals the film from all the adults. 2025, 15, 120MIN

This beguiling drama transports you to a vividly evoked resort in 1990s Turkey with an 11-year-old (Frankie Corio) and her dad (Paul Mescal). Mescal is superb, pulling off subtle moments that suggest a torment beneath the surface. Corio is wonderful as our window into this world, too, giving a child's-eye-view of a life just outside her comprehension. As the film's emotional sucker punch manifests, it's a drama you won't forget in a hurry. 2022, 12, 102MIN

Nicolas Cage plays an unremarkable biology professor – until he starts popping up in other people's dreams all over the world. What does he do about this peculiar fame? A brilliantly deadpan comedy that also happily weaves in horror elements, this deals with celebrity, cancel culture and the seemingly unstoppable power of social media with a deft hand. Cage is on phenomenal form, helping this satire to be an inventive, wildly odd experience. 2023, 15, 102MIN

Disney+ ★★★★

Vilified by the locals, a young woman (the ever excellent Kaitlyn Dever) lives alone in her house at the edge of town. So when aliens come to abduct her, there is no one she can turn to... Virtually dialogue-free, this excellent chiller becomes crazier as it goes, with a delightfully horrible bunch of ETs of various shapes and sizes attempting to nab poor Dever. The decision to keep it talk-free is a bit of a gimmick, but it works surprisingly well. 2023, 15, 93MIN

This Yuletide comedy is a laugh-out-loud, sweet-natured winner. Will Ferrell has one of his best roles as a human raised by elves in the North Pole, but now he's outgrown his home so heads to New York to find his crusty real dad (a delightfully sour James Caan). An expert at this kind of farce, Ferrell wears his silly green suit with aplomb and shows just the right amount of child-like wonder when he hits the Big Apple. Set on the French Riviera, director Alfred Hitchcock's smooth thriller – about a jewel thief trying to track down his impersonator – oozes with mystery, teasing jokes, red herrings and dead-end trails. Cary Grant is alluringly suave in the star role, his trademark expression of bemused detachment rarely put to better use, while Grace Kelly is icily effective as a high-society lady whose reserve is gradually melted by the excitement of a romance tinged with danger. Hitchcock appears after about 10 minutes, sitting next to Grant on a bus. 1955, PG, 102MIN

There is no de Bergerac appended to director Joe Wright's version of Edmond Rostand's 19th-century play. Nor does its hero brandish a giant hooter. Instead, it's the dwarfism of Cyrano (Peter Dinklage) that stops him professing his love for cousin Roxanne (Haley Bennett), choosing instead to put his words in the mouth of a dashing dullard (Kelvin Harrison Jr). Though the unmemorable musical side is dreary, the romance works well and it's a good-looking, well-acted frock opera. 2021, 12, 124MIN

Champions League

The league phase is hotting up at the halfway stage

LIVE FOOTBALL

Tuesday & Wednesday, TNT Sports 1, TNT Sports 2, TNT Sports 3 & Prime Video

The six English clubs have been in good form during the opening matches of the Champions League 36-team league phase, with Arsenal, Manchester City, Newcastle United and Liverpool all sitting in the top eight at the halfway stage.

This week, there are tasty ties for all the Premier League sides, with European giants Barcelona, Bayern Munich and Paris Saint-Germain among the opposition. Here's our guide to the games…

CHELSEA v BARCELONA

Tuesday, kick-off 8pm, Prime Video

With both teams on seven points, Enzo Maresca's men will be keen to lay down a marker after a disappointing draw in Azerbaijan against Qarabağ last time out, when Argentina winger Alejandro Garnacho spared their blushes with an equaliser. Marcus Rashford has netted four goals for Barca, but the five-time champions have been struggling defensively, conceding seven goals in the competition already.

Chelsea's Enzo Maresca

MANCHESTER CITY v BAYER LEVERKUSEN

Tuesday, kick-off 8pm, TNT Sports 1

City looked back to their best in the 4-1 demolition of Borussia Dortmund earlier this month. Phil Foden bagged a brace against the Germans, but it's Erling Haaland who's been in devastating form, netting five goals in the Champions League so far. Leverkusen have lost most of the players who led them to Bundesliga glory two seasons ago and have won just once in the competition.

MARSEILLE v NEWCASTLE UNITED

Tuesday, kick-off 8pm, TNT Sports 2

Eddie Howe's Magpies are sixth in the table and travel to the Stade Vélodrome on the back of three consecutive Champions League wins, with German striker Nick Woltemade filling the void left by Alexander Isak. Marseille have lost three times in the league phase, but pose a serious goal threat with ex-Arsenal striker Pierre-Emerick Aubameyang and former Manchester United winger Mason Greenwood in their ranks.

ARSENAL v BAYERN MUNICH

Wednesday, kick-off 8pm, TNT Sports 1

In the tie of the week, it's a clash of the top two at the Emirates, with Arsenal and six-time winners Bayern Munich both making perfect starts to this season's competition – with the Gunners yet to concede a goal. That record will be put to the test by Vincent Kompany's top-scoring Bayern side, as England captain Harry Kane (who'll get a few boos from Arsenal fans) leads a line-up that includes former Premier League star Michael Olise.

LIVERPOOL v PSV EINDHOVEN

Wednesday, kick-off 8pm, TNT Sports 2

The Reds were impressive in their 1-0 victory against 15-time winners Real Madrid and will start as heavy favourites against their Dutch opponents. Big-money signing Alexander Isak is still looking for his first Champions League goal for the Anfield outfit, but forward Cody Gakpo has been crucial for Arne Slot's side and will want to score against his former team after moving to Liverpool for £37m in January 2023.

Finan with Phil Daniels

Josh Finan as Dan

Waiting for THE OUT

FIRST LOOK

Josh Finan plays a troubled prison teacher in a powerful drama

BBC1's thought-provoking drama Waiting for the Out centres on a man with a difficult past whose work in prison education has far-reaching consequences.

The six-part series, airing early next year, is written by Dennis Kelly and based on teacher Andy West's memoir The Life Inside. Josh Finan (The Responder) stars as Dan, a philosopher who runs classes in a prison, and his lessons inspire big dreams yet also cause friction as the inmates share their views on thorny issues.

But Dan starts to ponder his own background, which has seen his dad (Gerard Kearns), brother (Stephen Wight) and uncle (Phil Daniels) all serve time in jail. And when he grows obsessively concerned that he should also be in prison, Dan's actions spiral out of control…

STRANGE CHOICE

Samantha Spiro co-stars as Dan's mother, while Ronkẹ Adékoluẹjo, Neal Barry, Francis Lovehall and Alex Ferns also appear.

'It's not unusual for the men in Andy West's family to end up in prison, but Andy is the only one that chose to be there,' shares Kelly. 'His book is funny, insightful, beautiful, genuinely heartbreaking and nothing like you'd expect it to be.'

'Having the chance to work with writing of this quality, inspired by such a rich real-life story, is a gift,' adds Finan. 'I can't wait for people to watch this hugely sensitive, empathic, hilarious and at times deeply emotional story.'

WHAT'S NEXT FOR...

David Baddiel

C4's three-parter David Baddiel: Cat Man will see the comic, writer and dedicated cat lover travel the country to meet incredible moggies, as he tries to challenge misconceptions and learn more about them.

Tom Davis

The actor (inset) is joining BBC1's six-part adaptation of Eric Morecambe's The Reluctant Vampire novels as bloodsucker Victor, whose son Val (Lenny Rush) seems unable to follow in his footsteps.

Joe Wilkinson

In U&Gold's Joe & David's Magical Sitcom Tour, the funnyman (inset) will team up with comic David Earl to celebrate The Office, Porridge and Fawlty Towers as they visit some of the filming locations and talk to special guests.

Coming Back

Jo Joyner and Mark Benton will return as the Stratford-upon-Avon-based sleuths in a sixth run of U&Alibi's whodunnit Shakespeare & Hathaway: Private Investigators, with Aruhan Galieva as new assistant Bea.
